DETAILED ACTION

Terminal Disclaimer

1. The terminal disclaimer filed on November 29, 2004 disclaiming the terminal portion of any patent granted on this application which would extend beyond the expiration date of U.S. Patent No. 6,658,100 has been reviewed and is accepted. The terminal disclaimer has been recorded.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 12-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Low (U.S. Patent No. 6,282,281).

Regarding claim 12, Low teaches a method of obtaining information about a called party at a calling party device, the method comprising:

entering a telephone number for the called party at the calling party device (column 23, lines 36-37); receiving at the calling party device an address for locating a customized file of the called party (column 23, lines 41-48);

retrieving the customized file at the calling party device using the address received (column 23, lines 49-58); and communicating from the calling party device with the called party over a voice channel associated with the telephone number (this is inherently as its conventional manner, see column 27, lines 22-67).

Regarding claim 13, Low further teaches the method wherein the address comprises a URL address (column 23, lines 33-35).

Regarding claim 14, Low further teaches the method wherein the customized file comprises a World Wide Web page for the called party (column 25, lines 11-28).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 15-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Low.

Regarding claims 15-17, Low further teaches the method that the calling party can display web page of the called party via Internet (column 26, lines 34-67). Low et al. fail to teach the calling party's device is mobile phone. Official Notice is taken that both the concept and the advantages of using a mobile to download a web site are well known and expected in the art. It would have been obvious to have included the mobile phone in Low as the download a web site feature is known to enable the calling party to access a particular web site of the called party by a mobile phone and thereby saving time and convenient for the calling party not to be fixed at a particular location.
